1. What is the Agri-Help Project

Agricultural growth is the major driver of poverty reduction in most African countries and most especially in orphanage homes where malnutrition exists. After the peak donations during Christmas and Easter, people barely rush to orphanage homes to make donations. Global population is projected to be around 9 billion by 2030, this will mean a reduction in arable land and an increase in demand for food. To save these orphans, there is the need to increase food production in orphanage homes. All of these coupled with the post-harvest loss issues birthed the Agri-Help project, an initiative that is aimed at supporting orphanage homes to farm in that way they are provided with good food that will help make them healthy and improve their well-being.
